about naxos grill & bar

Naxos Grill & Bar has been locally owned and operated since March 6th, 2007. We are pleased to delight your taste buds with our family recipes. You might hear us yelling “OPA!” It’s a traditional Greek exclamation that can be used to describe jubilant emotion. For our purposes, here at Naxos Grill & Bar, it could mean the following; your saganaki is on fire, dancing is great fun, or we’re smashing plates as part of “kefi” (the irrepressible expression of joy). We believe it brings good luck and it’s therapeutic. OPA!

From our traditional family to yours, we hope you enjoy our warm and friendly hospitality and take pleasure in the great food. It’s our privilege to serve you today and we look forward to serving you tomorrow. We’re sure you will enjoy what we have to offer, so sit back, relax and enjoy the flavour and hospitality of Naxos Grill & Bar.

Best Regards,

about naxos greece

Naxos Grill & Bar was named after the Greek island where Penny’s father was born and is the largest and most fertile island in the Cyclades.

It’s a popular destination for tourists with its impressive mountainous landscapes, endless golden sandy beaches showcasing pristine oceanic views, with over 40 traditional white painted villages, fishing harbours, Byzantine churches, ruins of ancient temples, and an active nightlife. Naxos is able to sustain itself with its own production of agricultural and dairy products.

Upon entering the city of Naxos you will be greeted by the Portara, also known as The Great Door, the remnants of a temple that was begun about 530 BC by the tyrant Lygdamis, but was never finished. Under Venetian and Turkish rule the temple was dismantled so its marble could be used to build a castle. Thankfully, the Portara was too heavy and massive, each column weighs about 20 tons, to be completely dismantled, and of the four columns three have survived. The Portara has become the “symbol” of Naxos. Some say that if you make a wish standing at its doorway, you can feel the energy as Apollo begins to make your wish come true.
